ICE CREAM.

My Ice Cream Manufactory, one of the largest in Virginia, still continues to supply private customers, Sunday schools, excursions, picnics, fairs, festivals and associations, as well as the trade, with that SUPERIOR ICE CREAM that has made a name in this community, and is known everywhere as BRENGLE'S ICE CREAM. I could easily reduce its price by lowering its quality, but good cream, of fresh, pure, wholesome ingredients, cannot be furnished at a less price than I serve it. Of course, I could "grade my cream by the price," but my cream would lose the good name that years of fair dealing have won for it. I ask that persons abroad ordering "Brengle's Cream" from third parties will assure themselves that the cream sent is certainly from my establishment. I warrant my cream, and do not wish that inferior cream, sent out as mine, may injure its reputation. It is my aim to furnish the BEST ICE CREAM IN AMERICA, and my customers are satisfied that I do so.

REV. J. P. LUDLOW WRITES:
178 Baltic St., Brooklyn, N. Y., Nov. 11, '74.
H. R. Stevens, Esq.
Dear Sir: From personal benefit received by its use, as well as from personal knowledge of those whose cures thereby have seemed almost miraculous, I can most heartily and sincerely recommend the Vegetine for the complaints which it is claimed to cure.

Mr. H. R. Stevens.
Dear Sir: I have been sick two years with the liver complaint, and during that time have taken a great many different medicines, but none of them did me any good. I was restless night and day, and had no appetite. Since taking the Vegetine I rest well and relish my food. Can recommend the Vegetine for what it has done for me. Yours respectfully, Mrs. ALBERT RICKER.
Witness of the above,
Mr. George M. Vaughan, Medford, Mass.

etine you have so kindly given us from time to time, especially those troubled with the scrofula.

VEGETINE.

REV. O. T. WALKER SAYS:
Providence, R. I., 164 Transit St.
H. R. Stevens, Esq.
I feel bound to express with my signature the high value I place upon your Vegetine. My family have used it for the last two years. In nervous debility it is invaluable, and I recommend it to all who may need an invigorating, restoring tonic.
O. T. WALKER,
Form's Past. Bowdoin sq. church, Boston.

South Salem, Mass., Nov. 14, 1875.
Mr. H. R. Stevens.
Dear Sir: I have been troubled with scrofula, canker and liver complaint for three years.
Nothing ever did me any good until I commenced using the Vegetine. I am now getting along first class, and still using the Vegetine. I consider there is nothing equal to it for such complaints. Can heartily recommend it to everybody. Yours truly, Mrs. LIZZIE M. PACKARD,
No. 16 Lagrange St., South Salem, Mass.

No Tall Hats Just Yet.

At one o'clock yesterday afternoon there arose from the campus of Columbia College a noise such as fifty Dennis Kearneys in full suit of a moon-eyed leper might be proud to make. Howls multiplied upon howls woke the quiet of Madison avenue and drowned the sputtering of the locomotives in the Grand Central Railroad yard. Windows of houses on Fourth street, facing the campus were thrown open and the heads of wondering women peeped out.

The occasion of the tumult was the annual rush of the Freshmen and Sophomore classes of the college, and the object of the clashing of the classes was to decide whether or not the Freshmen might wear high hats and canes for the rest of the year. The annual rush to settle this momentous question occurs on the 11th of October as sure as big guns.

From the opening of the college after vacation until the 11th of October the Freshmen are bound by a law of custom not to assume the heavier nor to swing the stick. But if the Freshman, in the rush, can carry off the "rushing cane" the Sophomore virtually outdoes his own superiority in the matter of dress to be a hollow farce. Last year the rush between the Freshmen and Sophomores was a draw.
In deference to the feelings of the upper class, however, the Freshmen wore low hats and carried their hands in their pockets for one term more.

At the close of recitations yesterday the two classes formed in two parties, facing each other, near the center of the campus grounds. Old hats and canes had been doctored for the occasion. The juniors gathered about the corners to see fair play and prevent fights. The Seniors mounted the campus hill and inflated their lungs to assist with the noise. The actors in the rush were instructed previously that when a man was tumbled down to stamp upon him would be entirely improper, and that to strike a man with the cane in controversy would be disgraceful.

When everything was ready a dog-fied junior east the cane, a stout, heavy stick, on the ground midway between the opposing parties, and each made a rush for it. Those in the front ranks tugged for the possession of the coveted stick. Those in the rear yelled.
The crowd surged from one end of the campus to the other. The Sophomores were but seventy in number, while their opponents numbered nearly a hundred.

The juniors, full of excitement, danced about, severely favoring the freshmen, no doubt, but promptly putting at an end all serious belligerent demonstrations. Montgomery, Sayre, Foster and Rawson were in the van of the sophomores struggling valiantly for the cane.
Often were they thrown upon the slippery grass, and Sayre lost his shirt and undershirt, but after a struggle of three quarters of an hour he and Montgomery got the stick and held it.
The sophomores were pushed to a corner of the campus near Fourth avenue.

The Freshmen would not allow that they were beaten. The Sophomores formed a line, grasped hands and started with a yell and a rush to break through ranks. Montgomery and Sayre, bearing the precious stick, followed closely in the rear of the line, and a small body guard of Sophomores protected the rear. There was a deafening howl, the Freshmen scolded, and the victors made straight for the college doors.

To enter the building was an unheard of thing in Columbia College to carry the stick into the president's office. The president, bearing the approaching rush, rushed to the entrance and ordered the boys away. The junior got one of the leaders by the collar, and the plan of storming the president's office was abandoned. Instead, the Sophomores carried the stick into the office of the college paper in the basement, where it was handed to an important Junior, and the rush was ended.—New York World.

One of the difficulties of employers in this country is a lack of a proper public sentiment with regard to contracts. An English judge recently had before him the case of a rascal who had asked for a day's holiday, and had received permission, which had subsequently been withdrawn, whereupon he left, and said that her employer could deduct a month's wages from the six months that were due her.
He, however, decided to pay her anything, and the judge held that he was right. As long as the girl was in his employ he had a right to control her actions, and when she left she broke her contract, and was not entitled to recover anything. It was hard that she should have worked for nothing, but the modern idea of servants that they could enter into a contract of service and break it at pleasure was entirely wrong.—Philadelphia North American.

Two COMPLICATED ACTRESSES.—Mrs. Olive and Mrs. Pritchard became very corpulent in the last years of their career. One night they were performing the character of Lady Easy and Edging in "The Careless Husband." In the part where the former desires the latter to take up a letter which is dropped on the stage, Mrs. Olive (who could as well have taken up the monument) cried out, "Not I, indeed! I take it up myself, if you like it." This threw an equal embarrassment on the other, which the audience sitting began to titter. At last Mrs. Pritchard, with great presence of mind,
